Additional Privacy Policy Terms for Extranet Users

Welcome back to hklaw.com, the Holland & Knight (“H&K”) website (the “Website” or “Site”). This document is part of our privacy policy and agreement (the “Privacy Policy” or “Policy”), which governs how we collect, use and treat personal information that visitors to our Website (“Site Users”) may provide through our Site.

The following Additional Terms for Extranet Users (“Extranet Terms”) apply only to Site Users who register for access to an extranet site (“Extranet Users”). The Extranet Terms detailed herein supplement, and do not replace, the Privacy Policy terms that apply to all Site Users, and these Extranet Terms expressly incorporate the terms of our general Privacy Policy. To the extent these Extranet Terms conflict with the generally-applicable Policy terms, the Extranet Terms will control.

1. Your Consent

Please read our Privacy Policy, including these Extranet Terms, with care; when you consent to this Policy, it creates legal obligations on you and on H&K. When you register for access to an extranet site, you will be prompted to click an "I Accept" button linked to these Extranet Terms and our general Privacy Policy during the registration process. Clicking "I Accept" confirms your agreement to be bound by this Privacy Policy, including the provisions set forth below in our Extranet Terms.

2. The hklaw.com Extranet Sites

An H&K extranet site (an “Extranet Site”) is a password-protected area of the Website that is created for and tailored to a particular H&K-Extranet User relationship. Our Extranet Sites are designed to provide a range of features. For example, in a litigation matter, we may set up an Extranet Site to provide a convenient method to share with our client (and potentially with co-counsel) case developments; scheduling events (such as hearing dates, depositions dates, and discovery deadlines); and information and work product. In a transaction, we may set up an Extranet Site to post due diligence materials and other information to assist the H&K and client teams in working together. There are a range of other uses for Extranet Sites, which we develop and implement with our clients on a case-by-case basis.

3. Types of Information You May Provide

We use the term “Extranet Information” to refer to information you provide in connection with your authorized use of an Extranet Site. Extranet Information includes (i) “Personal Information,” which is information that could reasonably be used to identify you (for instance, your name, address, e-mail address, birth date, telephone number or any combination of such information that could be used to identify you); and (ii) “Anonymous Information” that does not identify you such as, for example, statistical data concerning your use of the Site.

4. Our Uses of the Information You Provide

We use the Extranet Information you provide only for purposes of providing the H&K services that are the subject of the associated Extranet Site (except as provided in Section 5 (Disclosures to Third Parties)). We do not share this Extranet Information with third parties (unless the Extranet Site provides for such sharing, or unless you consent). Specifically, we collect, or receive Extranet Information at different points on our Website, and use it as follows:

- 4.1 Information Collected at Registration. In order to become an Extranet User on our Site, we require that you complete a registration form. This form asks for contact information, which includes such items as (i) name; (ii) mailing address; and (iii) e-mail address. We use the information to furnish a unique password, and in part to authenticate the Extranet User in the process of providing access to an Extranet Site.
- 4.2 Extranet Exchanges. Where exchanges over an Extranet Site constitute attorney-client communications or attorney work product, we hold such information in confidence in accordance with applicable ethics rules and other rules that apply to our legal practice (“Ethics Rules”).

5. Disclosures to Third Parties

- 5.1 Site Vendors. We may employ other companies to perform functions on our behalf, such as maintaining the Website, providing services related to the Site, collecting information, responding to and sending electronic mail, or other functions related to our business and services. In order to obtain these services, we may need to share your Personal Information with these companies (collectively, “Site Vendors”). We will provide Site Vendors with only that information necessary to perform their duties with respect to our Website, and we will not allow them to use your Personal Information for any other purpose.

- 5.2 Questions of Harm; Legal. We may reveal your Personal Information on a case-by-case basis in order to comply with applicable Ethics Rules.
- 5.3 Extranet Information. Certain Extranet Sites may allow access and use by parties in addition to H&K and you (collectively, “Additional Extranet Users”). If you disclose information to Additional Extranet Users, this Policy does not cover the uses to which those Users may put the information, and H&K is not responsible for such Users' conduct. Before making a disclosure, you should check the Privacy Policies of these Additional Extranet Users, or otherwise assure yourself that they provide the desired level of protection to your Personal and other Information.

6. Changing or Removing Information; Opting Out

To allow appropriate control over your Extranet Information, you can access your account (after supplying your user name and password) to change your password, or to correct your e-mail address for errors.

7. Disclaimer Concerning Extranet Site Functionality and Availability.

Extranet Users acknowledge that they have means other than the Extranet Site available to them to obtain needed information from H&K and agree that, if H&K provides timely information via such other means, the inaccessibility of the Extranet Site is harmless.

8. No Disclaimer Concerning Attorney-Client Exchanges via Our Extranet Site.

H&K expressly retains, and does not disclaim in any manner, responsibility for the content of attorney-client communications via Extranet Sites, and its provision of any advice or attorney work product to its clients via the Extranet Sites. Communications over our Extranet Site that do not take place between H&K and H&K clients are subject to the disclaimers set out in our Terms of Use.

9. Notification of Changes

If we make any changes regarding disclosure of Personal Information to third parties, upon your next login to an Extranet Site, we will inform you of the modified policy. No such changes will take effect with respect to you unless and until you have provided us with your consent to such changes, in accordance with Section 1 (Your Consent), above.
